Hardly the Proper Treatment. Amanda Graham, whose husband was hard at work yesterday, resolved to emulate his example to a certain extent, and invited Arno'd Snow, a colored friend, to witness the no'd Snow, a colored friend, to witness the exhibition. She worked a bottle of whisky for all it was worth and then proceeded to pound her visitor. He did not think this exactly the proper manner to treat a guest, but was not averse to taking a hand, and played so well that Amanda sought the assistance of Officer Sawyer, who arrested both of them. An Incident in the Morning Stroll of Two New-Comers, Very New. A newly-elected Member of the next Congress, with his wife, was taking in the sights around the Capitol this morning, and were standing on the hill at the south wing, looking out over the beautiful view. The clear, bracing air and balmy supshine heightened the enjoyment of the scene, and Mr. A. and his wife felt that their home for the next two years would be cast in pleasant places, indeed.

The twitter of the sun bird and the caw of the crow mane the scene a verifable spring picture, and the hearts of the new comers went out in goodness to all mankind. Soon a deep sonorous voice came up to them on the morning air, treighted with that solemn, the morning air, freighted with that solemn, unmistakable air of praise so dear to all who serve the master, and his wife waited in breathless expectancy to see who the sweet singer was. A rattle-trap of a wagon, driven by as ancient negro, came in sight around the incline and the negro's voice trembled and shook on the beautiful morning air, as he trilled forth the aver loved—

"What a friend I have in Jesus," and our cool people from the Empire State.

"What a friend I bave in Jesus," and our good people from the Empire State stood fascinated and drank in the picture. The wagou was labeled "Butter and Eggs," and Mrs. A. in the fullness of her heart, proposed to patronize the poor darkey who had such a love for the Lord, and Mr. A conwishes for his beaith and success.

On arriving home Mr. A. was recounting the beautiful incident of the morning, and several of his friends asked to tasic the butter.

Mr. X. who plays short-stop in the War [Department, took a generous lump in his mouth and shot it out with a vigorous: "U-un-ggh! Applegrease!" and wiped his tongue on the tablecloth. Major L. who holds down a soft chair in the lobby of the House, tasted it and yelled: "Who built the Ark " "Noah built the Ark, and I think he built that butter."

With doubt all over his face, Mr. A. gingerly took a gob of the golden butter, and in trying to get rid of it, shook his teeth toose and buiged his eye-balls out far enough to hang his hat on.

When he regained his voice he said: "Well, ding my buttons, here I have waded through Westchester County and stood off Shaky Davis, Waddy Donovan, Dicer Maloney and all the kids in Gotham, and I come here to this town to be done by a liver-colored moke for three gollars!" and X. chimed in: "Yes, and to the tune of "What a Friend I Have in Jesus." It is very said, "Te yery said." Jesus.' It is very sad, very sad.'

Why an Anti-Stand-Up-League Should be Formed by the Men. Why don't the men form an Anti-Stand-Up-

League? If all the meu in Washington who ride in street cars would become members of an oath-bound organization, swear that under no circumstances would they get up to give a woman a seat in a street-car, and stop furthering the economic designs of the street-car compaules, the result of the successful formation of such a league would be that when a woman, pretty or otherwise, got on a street-car in which all the seats were occupied she would look up one side and down the other and see that all the men had made signs of the A. S.
U. L. whatever it might be, resting the tip of the right thumb on the right knee, with the fingers closed, for inntance, as we used to do when we played, "Simons says, "thumbs down." woman a seat in a street-car, and stop further-

Then she would wave her hand to the conductor and get off the car. When the next car came along she would look to see if all the seats were occupied. If they were she would either walk or rate on another line of street cars. Then the bloodless corporations who run the street cars would put on more cars, and inside of a fortnight cars enough would be run to give seats to all passengers. But now nine women out of ten climb calmly into a crowded car in full confidence that some man will get up to give her a seat. And as it doesn't cost any more to run a car in which a doesn't cost any more to run a car in which a dozen or more passengers are standing up than it does to run anempty one these "stand-up" fares are clear profit to the company.

It might be rather hard on the women for a week or two, until the ear companies came to terms, but in the end the formation of the league would result in increased comfort to both the passengers and the conductors. It might be well to suspend the rules of the league on the rule of the league on the rule of the it would be rather too hard on the women to force them to wait on street corners for an empty car or walk a couple of sources to another car or walk a couple of squares to another line, but on all but such occasions the rules should be inflexible. Members might find it difficult to festrain their Washington gallantry—the like of which in this respect cannot be found anywhere else in the world—and sit still while a pretty woman hung to a strap and made eyes at him, but the consciousness. and made eyes at him, but the conscious that he was suffering in a good cause would lend him strength, and the lazy men would membership an ample excuse for not getting up.

AT THE THEATRES.

AT ALBAUGR'S-"THE LADY OR THE TIGER." Rosenfeid's opera, "The Lady or the Tiger?" was presented by the McCaull Opera Company at Albaugh's last night for the first time here. There was a big audience and a fine one in attendance, and tappreciated every point made. Everybody who has read Frank Stockton knows the opera's plot, DeWolf Hopper, as the King, is very funny; much funnier than Mr. Rosenfeld's conception, though possibly not quite so refined. Mr. Angelis' Menander wasn't very pretty, but it was very able, and so were the king's senators. Mr. Dungan and Mr. Oudin made a handsome pair of Greek Officers, and Mr. Oudin's voice won for him enthusiastic appliause and recalls were quite in order. He sings as few men do now in comic opera. Miss Manoia's Irene was quite Greek in cosume and person, and Annie Myers as Hilaria was prettly hilarious; particularly when in a chorus she proceeded to throw herself upon the bended knee of Theotychides, and knocked him clean over. time here. There was a big audience and a knee of Theotychides, and knocked him clean over.

This little contretemps won the heartiest laugh of the evening. Miss Knapp as "the Lady" spoke not, neither did she sing, but she was pretty enough to do neither. Mrs. Laura Joyce-Bell's Polyzena was done as she does everything, for all there is in it. Everybody did his part well, and if the opera were in the hands of less espable people it would fall flat. The music calls for good voices well handled, and the libretto calls for people who can do more for it than the author did. Miss Manola, Miss Myers and Mrs. Bell were remembered in flowers at the close of the first act. The chorus girls are very much better looking horus girls are very much better looking than the average. Again to-night and matince HARRIS' BLIOU-REDMUND-BARRY COMBINATION

The initial performance of the Rednund-Barry Combination at the Bijou last night brought out a large audience, which was liberal in its demonstrations of approval. Mr. Redmund is without doubt one of the best romantic actors on the stage, and this play, "Herminie; or, the Cross of Gold," of which he is the author, affords abundant scope for Mrs. Barry was impressive in emotional passages and a favorite as usual. The knife contest between the hero as presented by Mr. Redmund and Mr. Walter Eytinge, as the villian, was both striking and novel. The cast is good throughout and the performance progresses smoothly from beginning to end. The drop curtain feature is an interesting entre acte novelty. Again to-night. Matinees usual. "Harbor Lights" next week.

KERNAN'S-NELSON WORLD COMBINATION. The Nelson World Combination gives a variety programme at Kernan's Theatre this | efforts. week considerably above the average. The list of attractions presents the names of some of the best-known artists in that branch of amusements, and their efforts were warmly appreciated. Among the specialties are feats of the Nelson family, acrobats, and Nestor and Aerian, trapeze. The musical specialties are numerous and pleasing. THE NATIONAL-DUFF OPERA COMPANY

The Duff Opera Company, in "A Trip to Africa," appeared at the National last night with Miss Laura Bellini, Agues Stone and Hubert Wilke in the cast. Again to-night Miss Alice J. Shaw, the whistling prima donna, in connection with a fine concert com-pany, will appear at the Congregational Church to-morrow evening. The dudes who dote on Marion Manola are in force at Albaugh's this week, and the dudines with a craze for Hubert "Schiller" Wilke are at the National.

Five Thousand Dollars Damages. A verdict for $5,000 in favor of the plaintiff in the case of Claggett, administrator, against the Richmond & Danville Railroad Company, was rendered by the jury in the Circuit Court to-day

Ten thousand dollars damages was asked for the death of Guissippe Mosco, in an accident at "Fat Nancy Trestle." The case was submitted to the jury without argument, this amout having been agreed upon.

Trouble Between Captains.
The case of Captain J. W. Davis, who was censed of assaulting Captain Taylor last November, was on trial in the Police Court this morning. There had been considerable trouble between the two men and Taylor picked up a stone and flung it at Captain Davis, where-upon the defendant seized a light shot-gun and discharged it in Taylor's direction. The Court imposed a fine of $10.

Ten Months for Hitting an Officer, Special Officer Vass was struck with a brick thrown by John Carter, colored, while the officer was making an arrest, and was seriously hurt. He appeared against the defendent in the Police Court this morning, testified to the facts and the Court sentenced Carter to be mostly in in to ten months in jail.

The Emmons' Will Case. In the Equity Court to-day a motion in the Emmons' will case was brought up in which Henry Wise Garnett asks that the taking of testimony in the equity case of Professor Emmons against Garnett and Duncauseou be postponed until the jury case, certified from the Orphan's Court, has been disposed of.

DISSTON HALL DEDICATED Vice-President-elect Morton Attends the Ceremonies Vice-President-elect Levi P. Morton and wife, accompanied by Rev. Dr. on Saturday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Morton were driven to the residence of the Eckington & Soldiers' Home Railway Company for paving on New York avenue, between New Jersey avenue and Seventh street, as provided in section eight of the act of Congress approved June 11, 1878.

The official measurement and Beacon Dispensaries, connected with the Beacon Presbyterian Church, at Cumberland and Cedar streets.

Disston Hall is to be called so after Mrs. Henry Disston, who contributed most of the $14,000, which it cost to erect the building. It is an annex to the main church building, two stories in height, built of stone and brick. It is very spacious and roomy, and is to be de-voted to the educational and charitable work Dr. Robbins has extended throughout the northeastern section of the city so successfully. A large and commodi-ous lecture hall on the second floor is to be used for illustrated lectures, and on Sunday it will be utilized to accommodate two sections of the Beacon Church Sabbath School. On the first floor are general class-rooms and rooms for the surgeons and doctors who treat the poorer class of residents of a large portion of the surrounding neighborhood.

At Disston Hall an immense crowd as sembled last night to participate in the dedication services. Vice Presidentsembled last night to participate in the dedication services. Vice-President-elect Morton, Mr. George W. Childs, Mr. A. J. Drexel, Thomas Dolan, Dr. D. Hayes Agnew, Mr. Disston and many others of religious and social prominence were seated on the platform. Addresses were delivered by Mr. John Wanamaker, ex-Governor Robert E. Pattison, Rev. William G. Cattell, ex-president of Lafayette College; Rev. Henry M. Field of New York and others. At the conclu-New York and others. At the conclusion of the exercises Mr. Morton at tempted to hold a reception, but the crush was so great that after shaking hands with a few hundred people, the Vice-President-elect was compelled to forego his attempt to greet all those present, and, accompanied by Mrs. Morton, he left the place by a rear entrance. They proceeded at once to Broad street station, where they took a late train for Resurrection of the Critic. Monday, January 7, 5 p. m. MY DEAR OWL:

It was both a surprise and delight while at tea To have my old favorite come back to me, And I most sincerely hope and pray That you never will again go astray.

Bird of Freedom: You are all right, and our numerous patrons are specially happy ver the result. Oh! but you must have had a h-l of a struggle with the monkey; still you won the battle, and your lost plumage will soon recover its former beauty, and you will then appear just as neat and as pretty as ever; and you will greet your numerous patrons every evening with the same happy smile as of old and success will most surely crown your efforts.

Sincerely your friend,

Suits reduced to $8.00. Elseman's, 7th & E MARRIED.

WOODWARD & LOTHROP

This is the second week of our Grand Annual January Sales of Ladies' Muslin Underwear, Linens and Housekeeping Goods, Ready-made Bed Clothes, Hamburg Embroideries and Men's Unlaundered Shirts. Every department is displaying entirely new goods, and we propose to make this week's sale more successful, if possible, than the last, by offering bargains unobtainable elsewhere. As an attraction unprecedented we shall inaugurate in our Dress Goods

OF "SHORT LENGTHS" OF SERGES AND BROADCLOTHS.

We have just consummated one of the most judicious purchases of our business experience by securing from the Washington Woolen Mills of Lawrence, Mass., their entire balance of the winter season's accumulation of short lengths in Broadcloths and Serges at FIFIY CENTS ON THE DOLLAR.

These lengths embrace all the season's most fashionable shades and Black, in pieces ranging from 2 to 634 yards, and offers an opportunity to our customers to buy Children's Dresses, Coats, Cloaks, Ladies' Sacques, Jackets, inches wide, and perfect in every respect.

WHAT A PRETTY BABY.

Is it a boy or a girl? How often do we hear this remark and question. Yes, it is a pretty baby, but how bad its mother looks. She looks as if she were going right down. She is so thin and yellow, and her face is covered with wrinkles and blotches. She seems so nervous and irritable, too; but it is easy to account for her condition. Child-birth has left her with prolapsus, or other displacements, and weaknesses, nervous prostration and general debility. The best thing she can do is to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which has been prepared for the express need of women in this condition.

As a powerful, invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the womb and its appendages in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shopgirls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic, or strength-giver. As a spothing and strengthening nervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms, commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.
